INITIAL IDEA

The initial plan was to take screenshots of things I thought represented my time during the pandemic. These included a screenshot of movie ratings of movies from 2020-2022 on my Letterboxd account, a YouTube playlist of videos me and my friend have been adding to since the beginning of lockdown, a screenshot of a bunch of torrented movie titles that describe feeling isolated, and a some random Craigslist personal ads. I also gathered an interesting array of pictures I have taken since the beginning of the pandemic. With the Craigslist ads I tried changing them by editing the page with inspect on the web page. This yielded some interesting results, but was too text based for my liking.

My idea with the screenshots and camera images was then to convert them to a txt file and open them in text editor where I edited the image coding. I would then convert them back to a jpg file, this distorted the images. I also copy and pasted the altered code in a text glitch converter that I copied and pasted and saved as a png.
